I am a graduate of the City of Glasgow College with an HND in Web Development.

I have previous work experience as an architectural officer at Aberdeen City Council working within the housing department where I was involved with the design and production of documentation for works to the councils housing stock and to assist with the management of these contracts once the works were on site.

In 2015 I took some time off of work to travel and upon returning I decided to enroll at the City of Glasgow college to study web development. I found a lot of skills I gained as an architect helped with the transition to web development such as project planning and documentation and the importance of version control.

I am currently looking for a junior position where I can continue my learning in a professional environment and use the skills I have gained while studying to contribute towards a team.
